Marshall Named to Aid Wilson In The Presidential Fight

Bryan Makes Short Speech Proclaiming Loyalty and Curtain Drops On Great Convention.

Tired But Happy Delegates Wend Way Homeward.

(By United Press.)

Baltimore, July 3.—Wearied, but happy, and confident of victory in the coming campaign, the delegates to the National Convention dispersed to their homes today. They had nominated a ticket which, it was admitted, represented both wings of the party and the party declaration of principles, adopted unanimously, was one of the most advanced ever taken by a national political party.

The scenes that were accomplished by the closing of the convention were in decided contrast to the tumultuous sessions of the week that had preceded them. The fight was taken out of both sides. The only dramatic incident was the "valedictory" of Wm. Jennings Bryan, delivered shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, which brought his devoted followers to their feet with what proved the final demonstration of the long drawn out convention. With Woodrow Wilson as the head of the ticket, the party chieftains wanted a man in second place who would be a strong factor in the debatable middle west.

The Nebraskan favored Gov. Burke, of North Dakota, as his first choice. His second was Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon.

But the practical politicians, Taggart, Murphy, Sullivan and their lieutenants who had gone down to defeat before Bryan in every issue raised during the progress of the convention, declared that neither Burke nor Chamberlain should be the man. They pointed out that Chamberlain was a Democrat representing a Republican state in the upper branch of congress. "Nominate him and a Republican would certainly take his house in the Senate," they said. The Democrats are fully as much interested in making the Senate Democratic as they are electing their national ticket this year.

BRYAN WORKS HARD.

So far as Governor Burke was concerned the practical politicians pointed out that geographically his position was not such as to command votes. They insisted that the real candidate for the place was Marshall. Some of them wanted Senator Kern, of Indiana. He could have practically the unanimous nomination. But he positively refused.

Bryan worked as hard as he could to prevent the Marshall nomination. He positively asserted that his opposition to the Indiana governor was in every way impartial and that he believed a better known man should have been the selection. But when the nomination was finally assured on the second ballot, it was Bryan who urged and succeeded in having the North Dakotan withdraw Burke so that the nomination might be unanimous.

Wilson and Marshall seemed today to satisfy every delegate to the convention. The sore spots were beieng rapidly healed as the men who have made party history in the most remarkable Democratic convention ever held, departed for their homes.

Murphy and Bryan joined—although not together—in eulogizing the ticket and in predicting success for it next November. Andy Bryan positively promised in one of the most eloquent speeches he has ever made that he will stump the country from one end to the other to assure its success.

The voluntary passing of Bryan was the one great dramatic incident of the night. The convention had stopped in the middle of its roll call on the nominations to spend a couple of hours disposing of the platform, and the usual resolutions. It was long past midnight when it resumed its labors. The roll was proceeding slowly. The vast auditorium was still jammed with people, the galleries had been listening in amusement to the efforts of orators to pay eloquent tributes to the men they were placing in nomination for the vice presidency.

NOMINATES BRYAN.

The heat and the lateness of the hour had its effect and fifty per cent of the crowd was lazily lolling back in chairs, hoping for something to enliven the monotony. The reading clerk, finally reached the District of Columbia, next to the last on the list. He had to call twice. Finally the figure of a fat man climbed on the chair. He was wet with perspiration. His collar was a rag and his general appearance one of complete physical exhaustion. There was a general laugh from the galleries and then the representative of the District in a voice that penetrated to every part of the big armory began:

"Mr. Chairman," he shouted, "we have nominated for the head of this ticket a man whom every one admits is assured. But to make assurance doubly sure now nominate as our candidate for the vice presidency of the United States the most progressive of all Americans, the man who personally has created these policies which mean the placing of this nation of ours on record as insisting on the absolute right of the people to rule, the greatest of all living Americans—the Hon. Wm. J. Bryan, of Nebraska."

There was a pause that seemed to last ten minutes. It actually lasted ten seconds and then came the wildest, most hysterical outburst of cheering that has marked the convention from the delegates themselves, from the galleries, and from the dim recesses of the great dust filled building there went up a roar that seemed like the whistle of a thousand locomotives merged into one.

Down in the very front in the seat set apart for him by the Nebraskan delegation, Bryan was sitting. Motionless he remained, the palm leaf fan clutched in his hand, his hair disheveled, his face ash white. But as the cheering continued and increased in volume, a red blush mantled the commoner's face and head.

"Bryan! We want Bryan!"

The refrain echoed and reached from one section of the hall to the other which reverberated from the ceilings until it was deafening.

"Platform! Platform!"

The refrain went up. And in obedience to the cry, slowly mounted to the same spot where a few days ago he had denounced to their faces Murphy, Ryan and Belmont.

Bryan did not speak long, but every word he uttered will ever be remembered by those who heard it. He spoke in a voice that at times trembled with emotion at regret that the personal enmities he had engendered during the sixteen years he had been leading Democracy, made it necessary for him to relinquish the leadership into other hands.

"He who fights must bear scars," he shouted in a voice that again galvanized the galleries and floor into life. "And any regret that I may have, is wiped out by the realization that I can fight in the coming campaign as I have never fought before. Able to show that there is no selfish interest actuating my course, I hope to demonstrate to the people of the country that the party we love so well is in reality the party progress."

Bryan retired to his seat amidst tumultuous applause and the roll call on the nomination of the vice president began. The first ballot showed the Marshall lead. Then came an attempt on the part of some of the delegates to suspend the rules so that a second ballot would be uneccessary, but Bryan was prepared to lead a fight on it. However, on the second ballot, it was demonstrated that Marshall was sure to win and Congressman Hughes, leader of the Wison forces, consulted with Bryan. The Nebraskan nodded acquiesences and Hughes demanded unanimous consent that the nomination be made by acclamation. North Dakota objected and the roll was ordered to proceed. Then former Senator Purcell, realizing that the fight was over, withdrew Governor Burke's name and the motion for the nomination by acclamation was renewed and went through with a whoop. Fifteen seconds later the Democratic National convention was a part of the nation's history.

CLARK MENTIONED.

Following Wilson's nomination a determined effort was made to have Speaker Champ Clark accept the nomination for the vice presidency. For a time the speaker was inclined to accede to the demand. The appeals to him were made on the grounds of party loyalty and the sturdy old Missourian was inclined to sacrifice his personal wishes to the call of the party. But his friends refused to permit the sacrifice. They told him bluntly there were plenty of other men and that as Speaker he had a duty to perform and should remain there.

The effort to get Clark as Wilson's running mate took time and in the interval, after listening to speeches nominating some of the candidates, the convention adopted the platform. The comprehensive document seemed to please the delegates although the reading had to be interrupted several times because of the disorder in the galleries whose occupants were so far off that they could not distainguish a single word of the party declaration of principles.

SEEKING RECRUITS.

Sergeant Charles Telzerow, a U. S. recruiting officer, has opened a marine recruiting station in connection with Dr. Laudiok's office on thewest side of the public square. The office will be here for six months. Demand for naval recruits is great at present, which accounts for the opening of a station in this city.

PROMINENT MINISTER DIES SUDDENLY IN PHILADELPHIA HOUSE OF ILL FAME

(By United Press.)

Philadelphia, Penn., July 3.—Rev. Reece Wilmer Perkins, President of Leland University, New Orleans, was found dead in a room of a house in the most notorious section of the tenderloin Monday night. His body lay upon a slab in a morgue for hours, next to suicides and outcasts, until his wife crept timidly into the house of death and identified the body.

She carried her head proudly until told by Fritz Widener, the morgue keeper, the circumstances under which her husband died, and then crumbled on the floor in a faint. Heart disease caused the death of the clergyman, according to physicians.

Widely known as a lecturer upon the moral virtues and equally famous as an educator, Dr. Perkins held a high place among the Baptist ministry. His death came under surroundings so unusual to the members of the cloth that the police were at first loath to believe that Dr. Perkins was the man removed from the Callowhill street house. When they had been made sure by the heart-broken wife they began a rigid examination of all the inmates of the house.

Frances Ross, a girl of the under world, was the one who reported the death of the minister. She said Dr. Perkins came to the house Monday afternoon.

It was not until 6 o'clock in the evening that she noticed that he was strangely quiet. She shook him, but received no response. Repeated attempts to arouse him without success terrified her. She dashed water in his face and held a mirror before his lips. Then, convinced he was dead, she ran, shrieked, to the owner of the house—Margaret Jones.

The latter telephoned to the police.

A squad of patrolmen was sent to the house and confronted a dozen gaudily dressed women, each protesting that they had done no wrong. The police dashed upstairs into the room, examined the body and then made a search of the minister's clothing. In a pocket was found a letter directed to Rev. Reece Wilmer Perkins, with the address 3305 Arch street, this city. The case was reported to the Coroner's office, but none of the deputies relished the job of notifying Mrs. Perkins.

Finally a policeman was sent to the Arch street house. He did not tell Mrs. Perkins the circumstances of her husband's death, but simply said that he thought her husband was dead, and that his body was in the morgue.

Mrs. Perkins did not believe that he could be right, as her husband told her that he was going into a section of the city where she would have heard the news of him if he had died. It was hours later when she saw the body lying on the morgue slab and heard the story of his death.

Then she fainted, and a doctor worked over her for some time before she recuperated sufficiently to go to the home of friends with whom she and her husband had been staying since they came North, a few years ago.

JOHNSON-FLYNN FIGHT MAY BE CALLED OFF

(By United Press.)

East Las Vegas, N. M., July 3.—Increasing possibility or probability of a crowd insufficient to meet Jack Johnson's purse demands, and to cover the expense of promotion, things are looking dubious today for Thursday's fight.

Train after train has come in without the expected crowd, and the hopes of Jack Curley have fallen accordingly.

That there will not be enough in the house to meet general expenses, aside from the purse guaranteed Johnson, is a foregone conclusion and because of this a meeting will be held late this afternoon between Johnson and Curley to talk over the situation. Johnson is in a conciliatory mood and not inclined to force harsh terms, but if there is not enough money assured Curley will be put to his utmost to make terms satisfactory to consummate the fight.

This morning there was less than $30,000 in the treasury and as the promotion cost is almost that much and as Las Vegas merchants failed to come through with their promise to buy the tickets they agreed to before the match was signed up, it looks very much like some one is going to be stung.

Yesterday the entire matter was threshed out.

Jack Curley last night was decidedly worried over the failure of the expected special trains. Unless they arrive today or Thursday morning, it will mean the loss of thousands to him. The arrivals yesterday were decidedly lean.

Johnson, Flynn and Curley were scheduled to hold a joint conference with referee Smith last night at Curley's headquarters. Flynn was on time but after waiting 35 minutes for Johnson left in anger, venting his wrath upon Manager Flanagan.

"Tell your man," he said, "that I was here on time and that I will meet him here tomorrow night, if he isn't afraid to show up."

The Puebloan showed surprising ginger last night and very little anxiety and worry. "You know what I said a couple of days ago," he said. "I am ready and if Johnson beats me, it will be when I am coming in.

"I'll never stop until one of us falls. Johnson does not own any private grave yard, so far as I have heard, and as for his defeat of Jeffries, why if I could not not have beaten Jeffries two years ago I would never draw on a glove again."

Clerk of Supreme Court—
Thos. J. Edwards, Lima.

(By United Press.)

Columbus, O., Following the nomination of Judge E. B. Dillon, for Governor and Gen. Brown, of Zanesville, for lieutenant-governor, the Republican state convention concluded its work late Tuesday afternoon. Among those honored with nominations was Thos. J. Edwards, of Lima, who was chosen as a candidate for clerk of the Supreme court.

National Administration forces won a decisive victory. Not only did they bring about an indorsement of the policies of President Taft, but they likewise placed in nomination a ticket from top to bottom of their own selection and bearing every earmark of Washington approval.

While the program had been to nominate Lawrence K. Langdon for Governor, this was blocked by the action of the Hamilton county delegation, which persisted in supporting B. H. Kroger, of Cincinnati, against Langdon.

However, the Hamilton county men were entirely agreeable to the nomination of Dillon and offered no objection when it became apparent that he was to be the choice.

VOTED "WET"

SPENCERVILLE WILL RAKE IN SOME OF THE TOWNSHIP REVENUE.

Special to The News.

Spencerville, O., July 3.—After a hot contest at the polls Tuesday Spencerville voted "wet," winning out over the "dry" forces by a vote of 225 to 213. The last time the village voted it went dry by 69 votes; but the township has been wet for several years and of the two saloons in the township one is located right at the corporation line.

It is now expected at least one of the saloons will move into the corporate limits and the citizens argue the outcome of the election is better for them so long as the township was wet as they can now control the saloon with municipal regulations and at the same time derive a part of the revenue.

PETITION ASKS FOR A PARDON

EFFORT BEING MADE TO SECURE RELEASE OF VETERAN SAM FERGUSON.

A petition seeking to secure a pardon for Samuel Ferguson, now serving a life sentence in the Ohio penitentiary for murder, committed in this city, is being circulated by friends of the prisoner's family and will be submitted to the penitentiary board of pardons at some future date.

Ferguson, as will be remembered was sentenced to a life term in the Ohio prison for taking the life of Richard McGriff, a local citizen who followed the occupation of a pipe fitter and plumber. Both were residents of the east side, where Ferguson conducted a small grocery store. McGriff owed him an account for groceries and when endeavoring to collect the sum due him, Ferguson lost his temper and shot McGriff, the tragedy occuring in the latter's home and in the presence of the members of his family. Ferguson is a veteran of the civil war.

BIG ICE HOUSE

BURNED AT BOWLING GREEN—STATE INSPECTORS MAKE SEVERAL CHANGES.

Bowling Green, O., July 3.—Fire, which is supposed to have been caused by a hot ash dropping from a smoker's pipe, totally destroyed the large building at the Warfer (Mercer) green house on Reed avenue. Damage on the building and contents amounts to about $800. When the fire was discovered, there were small tongues of flame shooting through the cracks of the building near the door. The building was formerly used by Mr. Mercer as an ice house. Last winter no ice was put up, and Mr. Farfer had a car load of fertilizer stored in the building.

State Inspectors John Devlin of Toledo, and W. H. Gawna, of Norwalk, who were in the city Tuesday made suggestions for certai naiterations to be made in each of the theatoriums of the city, and in the one airdome of which the city boasts. The suggestions were sent to the head office in Columbus from which place orders for the changes will come in a few weeks.

The managers of the airdome were considerably nonplused when the inspectors said that no airdome, or summer theatre could operate in the city which is situated less than thirty feet from any other structure.

WELL! WELL!

Lansing, Mich., July 3.—In a lenghty statement issued this morning Governor Osborn voiced his sentiments against a third party and expressed a hope that Col. Roosevelt would abandon his plans for a convention i nAugust and not be a candidate for the presidency. The Michigan Governor was one of the seven governors to meet in Chicago and request Roosevelt to become a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Exquisitely beautiful in every detail, will be the wedding of Miss Helen Hope Burton, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Burton, to Mr. Branson Harley Holmes, to be consummated at the Market Street Presbyterian church, at half after eight o'clock this evening. Miss Edna Peate will preside at the organ, playing the preliminary music, which will be blended into Lohengrin's Chorus, and herald the advent of the bridal party. The recessional will be made to the strains of Mendelshon's Wedding March. Mrs. Edna Burton Van Dyke will occupy the position of matron-of-honor, and the bride will also be attended six bridesmaids, the Misses Edna Nelly, Ruth Thompson, Dorothy Downing, Marguerite Zender, Nora Sprague and Ione Hammond, of Marietta. Ralph Porter Mackenzie will officiate as best man, while other attendants of the bridegroom will be six ushers, Mr. Seward Bayly, Mr. six ushers, Mr. Seward Folsom, Mr. G. Rogers, Dr. Guy Bayly, Mr. Don Daron, of Detroit, Mr. Van Cleve Holmes, of New York City, and Mr. Wilmont Trevor, of New York City. Rev. David Hughes Jones, of Chicago, former pastor of the Market Street Presbyterian church, will pronounce the sacred vows.

Following the ceremony, a brilliant reception, wedding supper, and dance will be given at the Elks' Home.

Decorations at the church and at the Elks' Hall will be elaborate, effected in a color scheme of pink and green, the wedding colors.

The bride and groom will depart at midnight, for a two weeks' honeymoon trip in the east, after which they will return to this city, residing at the homes of the parents until their new home on Lakewood avenue, is completed.

The bride is a prominent figure in social circles of the city, her excellent education and admirable disposition having won for her a legion of friends. She is a graduate of the local high school, and later attended the Martha Washington Seminary at Washington D. C.

The groom is a prosperous young attorney, and also holds an office of Justice of the Peace. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Holmes, of west Market street, and is widely and poularly known in the city.

A bridal dinner, perfectly appointed, was given at the Country Club, Tuesday night, at which the bride presented her bridesmaids with her beautiful gifts to them and the groom, his gift to his attendants. After the dinner, the entire party repaired to the church, to rehearse for the momentous event of this evening.

PROFIT IN ALLIGATORS

BUSINESS OF RAISING THOSE SAURIANS PAYS WELL.

Aquariums, Museums and Tourists Buy the Young Ones—Many Articles Are Made From the Hides, Teeth, and Bones.

Alligator farming is a business that is far from overcrowded and the few enterprising men who have taken it up in the last few years have practically all found their farms to be paying institutions almost from the start, according to a writer in the Scientific American. Although the supply of wild alligators is being reduced to an alarming extent, raising alligators for their skins alone can not be seriously considered until the wild supply is much smaller than it is now. As it takes several hundred years for alligators to attain their full growth, it might seem that returns would rather slow. However, baby alligators are always in good demand from aquariums, museums and tourists, and from their sale and the fees of admission to the farms the chief present revenue is derived. The skins, too, begin to become valuable when the alligator is six or seven years old.

Until 10 or 20 years ago, no alligator skins were used for any purpose, and for several years after that only the smooth portion which was found on the stomach was utilized. Now the back or horny portion is regarded as the most valuable, and not only is the hide of the alligator used, but his teeth and bones also contribute to various articles from suit cases to paper knives and whistles. In the Florida Everglades several hundred persons, mostly Seminole Indians, make their living by alligator hunting. The Florida supply is rapidly diminishing and in the last two years Mexico and Central America along the gulf have been invaded. Extermination seems likely unless drastic measures for protection are taken.

One of the most widely known alligator farms is at Palm Beach, Fla., at which a collection of over 1,000 saurians is kept, ranging from tiny ones just hatched to Jumbo Joe, supposed to be 900 years old, measuring 18 feet 4 inches. In this collection is also a crocodile, the largest in captivity, estimated to be 2,000 years old. It is 17 feet 7 inches long. The largest collection of alligators is at Los Angeles, Cal., on a farm owned by S. V. Ernest, on which there are over 2,000 alligators. The largest, caught only a few months ago in the Everglades in Florida, is 18 feet long and weighs about 900 pounds.

A large female alligator lays from 50 to 60 eggs every summer, and a small one from 25 to 30, and practically every egg will hatch. Special incubators for them are used at the farms. Alligators require no food from September to May. The rest of the time they eat meat. Baby alligators up to three years of age, at which time they will not exceed 18 inches in length, find the readiest market and are sold at from one to four dollars. Larger ones are usually sold at practically so much a foot, a 16-foot alligator bringing as much as 20, and the very large ones from 15 to 19 feet long, which are desired mainly for aquariums, from $75 to $100.

Soap Bubbles and Monkeys.

Prof. C. V. Boys, F. R. S., has been trying the effect of soap bubbles on the orangoutangs, chimpanzees and monkeys at the London Zoo. When the first bubble soared into the cage where an orangoutang was confined an inquisitive amazement could be seen in its attitude. But as soon as it noticed that these flying bombs exploded without any disaster it gained courage.

Carefully, nervously, when a bubble entered it stretched its hand nearer and nearer, and suddenly caught it. Then, tremendously pleased at the novel game, it put its muzzle through the bars, and the professor blew a bubble so that it settled on its nose. Thereupon the tongue was curled up and the bubble was licked in with a real smacking of the lips.

Two of the chimpanzees, meanwhile, who were watching the exhibition, huddled in terror, but intensely curious, in a corner of the cage. One chimpanzee displayed just the same eagerness as the orangoutang.

When the lower tribes of monkeys were tested the response to science was less gratifying. They would not take any particular notice, but continued their usual antics after some cursory glances.

Barkers.

Miss Mary Garden was talking, at a dinner party in Chicago, about the letter quarrel that Oscar Hammerstein had had with his London rival, Neil Forsyth.

"Mr. Hammerstein concluded his last letter," said Miss Garden, "with the words: 'My bow, Oscar Hammerstein.'

"I suppose Mr. Forsyth, when he replies, will conclude with, 'My bow-wow. Neil Forsyth.'"

Woman Lawyer in High Position.

Sport World Focused About Las Vegas 4th

JIM FLYNN WILL MEET J. JOHNSON FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

July 4, 1912, will be red letter day in sport. Three world's championship bouts are scheduled for tomorrow, and fight fans all ever the world are agog with interest. At Las Vegas, N. M., Jack Johnson will defend his title of champion heavyweight boxer against Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, at Vernon Cal., Joe Divers, the Mexican fighter will attempt to wrest the championship of the lightweight division from Ad Wolgast, the Michigan wonder and in Chicago the world's wrestler, Frank Gotch will meet Joe Smejkal, the Bohemian strongman, in the politically em- d Coliseum.

the Wolgast-Rivers match ected to provide the closest contest, the big event will be the battle of the heavyweights, because Flynn will be the first man after Jefferies to fight in a bonafida world's championship heavyweight match.

The country will await the news from Las Vegas tomorrow with feverish interest, despite the fact that general opinion sees no rhyme or reason for the contest from a financial sentimental or pugilistic standpoint. The concensus of opinion is that Flynn has not one chance in a hundred of defeating Johnson at any stage of the forty five rounds.

However, there is at least one thing about the struggle that is worthy of close attention. It will serve to determine whether Johnson's two years of easy living have undermined his fighting powers. Should the black knight find much trouble in subduing his opponent tomorrow, much of the fear he now inspires will quickly be wiped out. In that case he may find other matches on his hands that will be taken a great deal more seriously than the present one.

Luther McCarthy, Al Palzer and Bombardier Wells are rated better than Flynn, although the latter will be introduced tomorrow as the "champion white heavyweight of the world." Moreover, there are three negroes in the heavyweight race, Sam Langford, Joe Jeanette and Sam McVeagh, any one of whom are considered capable of finishing any of the white men here named.

Johnson's gay life in Paris is the basis of the hopes for Flynn. That the negro must have gone back a lot is conceded by ring followers. He is now thirty-four years old, which makes him the oldest of all ring stars. Heavyweights appear to last longer than the lighter men for some reason, but he is long past meredian of his career in any case. Flynn and his backers have been pointing out these facts with great gusto as evidence that the Pueblo heavy has but to take things easy for a few rounds and then hand the flagged old darkie a sleep punch. To prove the absurdity of this notion it is necessary only to say that Flynn himself is a veteran only one year younger than the champion.

Flynn sounds like Irish, and the usurper of the name looks like a full-blooded Irishman. Moreover, his fighting has always been marked by the erratic "wild Irishman" style. But that does not make him one. Every drop of blood that flows in his veins comes from "Sunny It." His parents embarked at Rome forty years ago, with Brooklyn as their destination. Later they went to Pueblo.

Andrew Chiariglion—Jim Flynn—began his career in Pueblo ten years ago, and he has had a slow but steady climb into prominence. He was called Jim Flynn in his bout because the announcer could not pronounce his real name, and the alias has stuck. His second victories over Carl Morris and Hal Kaufman gave him his claim for a match with the champion.

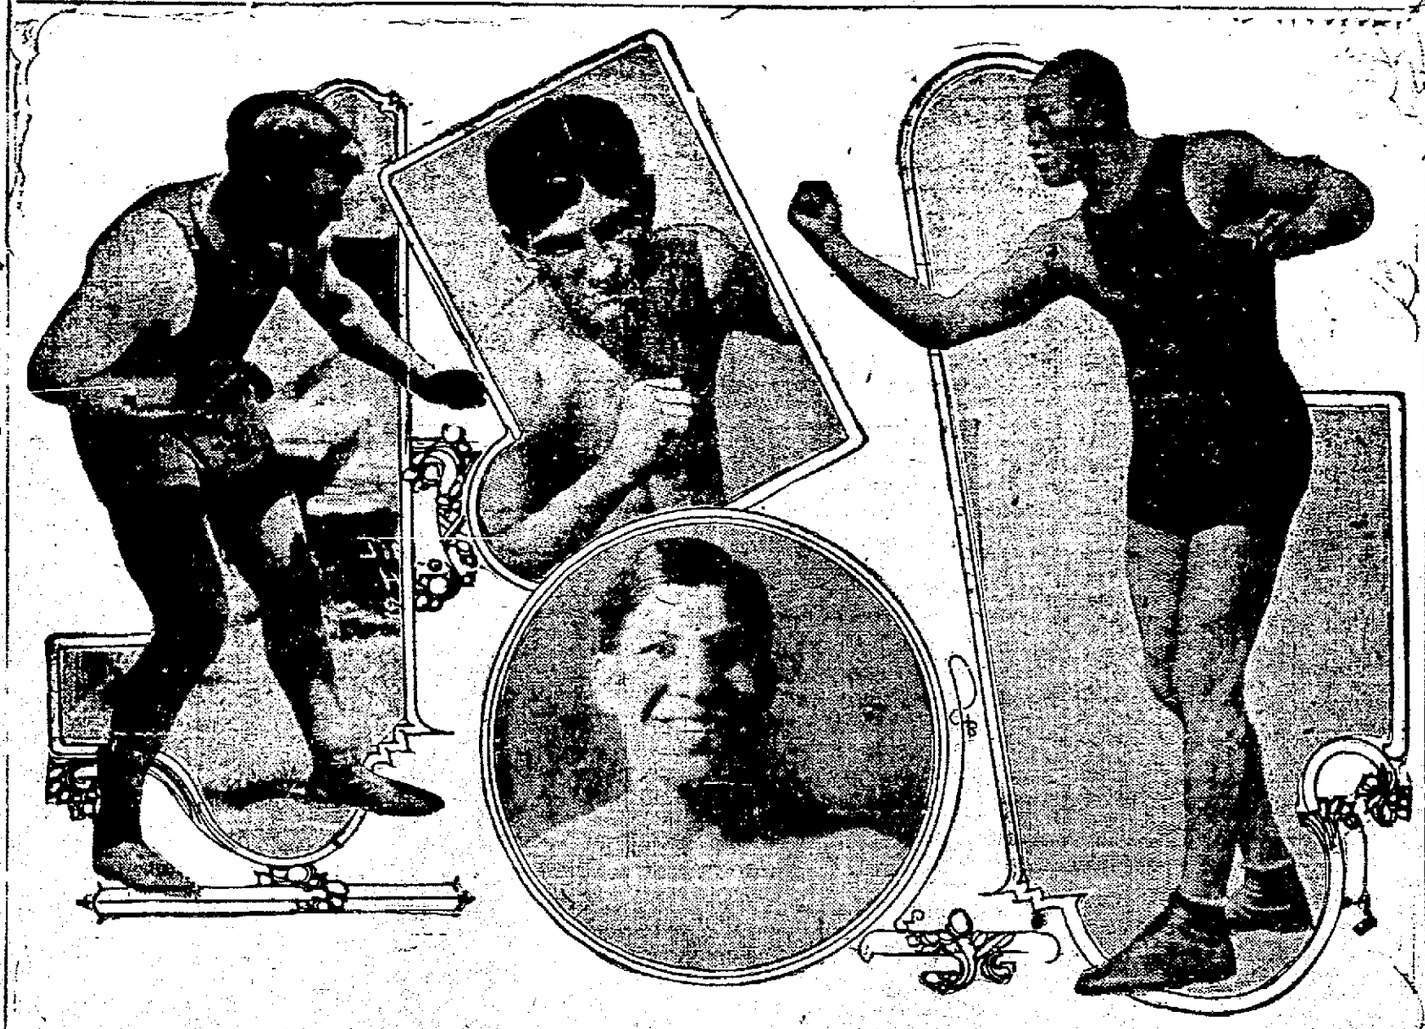
Five years ago Johnson beat Flynn, who then weighed 155 pounds and was really nothing like the fighter that he is today. Flynn was not knocked out in that fight. In the eleventh round he had a ghastly eye and was bleeding so profusely that Mrs. Flynn jumped into the ring and had the referee stop the encounter.

A short time ago a bout between Wolgast and Rivers would have been considered as one-sided as the Johnson-Flynn go. olgast has evinced wonderful capacity for taking punishment and made frequent exhibitions of a real knockout punch. Rivers on the other hand, was beaten not very long ago by Johnny Kilbane, champion of the featherweight class. But Wolgast has been operated upon for appendicitis since he won the lightweight crown, and Rivers has shown decided improvement since his defeat by Kilbane.

"I had to starve and sweat and boil myself down to Kilbane's weight," Rivers explains. "I left my punch in the steam room. Since then I have had three fights with boys of my own weight and all of them were knockouts. Wolgast hasn't scared me a bit."

While Wolgast claims to have suffered no loss of strength by his operation, last Thanksgiving, his old time form has failed to show itself in the two bouts that he has figured in since his recovery.

TWO WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHTS TOMORROW



JIM FLYNN — RIVERS (on top) WOLGAST (on bottom) — JACK JOHNSON

HERE'S JIM FLYNN'S IDEA OF HOW HE'LL WHIP JACK JOHNSON

I've learned to hit straight.
I won't swing once.
I'll make Johnson bring the fight to me.
You won't see me rushing into Johnson.
I've trained up instead of down, and I'm hard as nails.
I'm fit to go a hundred rounds; I've trained for speed, too.
I've learned the knack of gliding in close without clinching, and I'm always prepared to land heavy wallops on the body.
Johnson's champion; if he tries to make a defensive fight I'll stay away and then the crowd will hiss him.

A Rude Awakening Of Griff's Pets

Washington has awakened to a saddening realization. It is that the Nationals haven't a chance to beat the Athletics on the season.

The Griffters have won only four out of 14 games against the champions. Something nearly always goes wrong with the Nationals, and everything seems to go right with the Athletics. The funny part, as seen by folk outside of Washington, is that the Washington fans are howling murder because the club is not in first place. They used to get elated when their club stood a chance to be first in the second division.

Russ Ford Did It

This time Jawn Titus punched out a home run with two men on, thereby giving the Giants a score.

The Yanks finally did it, with Russ Ford pitching. The Red Sox hit Ford hard but the Yanks swatted terrifically and consistently.

It was their first victory of the season over Boston, coming after thirteen straight defeats.

Gardner, the Boston third baseman made two home runs and a single off Ford.

Jackson and Cobb, old-time hitting rivals, made three hits each in the game at Detroit.

Larry Cheney allowed the Pirates three hits. Bobby Byrne made two of them.

Looks Dark For Rube Marquard

(By United Press.)

New York, July 3.—One of the best ptichers battles of the season is expected today when Marquard of the Giants, hooks up with Rucker of the Brooklyns. The two are rated heer as the two greatest southpaws in the game and both have been going strong.

Marquard has eighteen to his credit.

Johnny Still Has Some Punch Left

(By United Press.)

New York, July 3.—Johnny Coulon, Bantam weight champion won over to his side the local critics who have been decrying his ability by decisively conquering Joe Wagner, of New York last night. The Champion outboxed and outfought Wagner all the way.

Just Gossip

Despite the fact that he held the Browns to eight hits. Benz, ex-Ohio Stater, lost his game to the St. Louis clan, yesterday, 2-1.

Score another for "Lefty" Cooper, ex-Digger. The port-sided youth who used to toil in this organization, held the Indianapolis Hoosiers to four bingles and won yesterday, 3-1.

Aside from Cooper, Ray Miller, ex-Stogie, was big wheeze of the day. Miller's work was featured in the press dispatches, while his double in the first scored the winning runs.

More Meat For Jim Stewart, Maybe

(By United Press.)

New York, July 3.—It is a poor day when New York fight promoters can't produce a foreign home talent.

Following Bombadier Wells and Sid Burns, English title holders, Fred Storbeck, the heavyweight champion of Africa will be offered, meeting Jim Stewart, of Brooklyn, at Madison Square next Monday.

McHenry Bout At Celina Promises A Great Success

At 8 o'clock Thursday night, night, Jack McHenry, Lima's premier exponent of the bruising game and champion welter-weight of the south, will crawl through the ropes and don the padded mits with "Kid" Donovan, a promising Ft Wayne welter-weight and aspirant for McHenery's laurels.

Hundreds of Lima's sport devotees will be at the ring side. The bout is carded before the Merceline Athletic Club at Celina, O., and has been widely advertised. There is no popular boxer in this section that Jack McHenry and his enviable barn-storming record through the south for the past year or more has earned him the title of welter-weight champ of that section. McHenry is a Lima product and has thousands of Allen county friends pulling for his success. He was schooled in this city and the first principals of the art were taught him before local clubs. Doubtless there will be several hundred of his Lima admirers at the ring side.

As an extra attraction, several spicy preliminaries are on the card. "Kid" McHenry, a brother of the fighter, and Young Thomas, both of this city, will give an exhibition of the art as demonstrated by feather-weights prior to the main bout. Another preliminary will be Jimmy Gillen, Lima, and Young Stanley, of Cincinnati, welter-weights, who promise a fast bout.

Both McHenry and Donovan will weigh in at 142 at 3 o'clock. Both warriors have been training hard for the bout and will doubtless furnish an interesting exhibition for local sport lovers. Special cars will be run to Celina and return following the bout.

Babes Tie Score In Ninth And It Rains

Special to The News.

Chillicothe, O., July 3.—In a see-saw affair, the Babes and Beans battled for nine innings yesterday and the game was finally called when heavy rain fell. Williams blew up in the seventh, while Clark was driven from the rubber in the ninth. A catch by Potts and his batting featured.

Beanies iced the game, apparently, in the seventh when they set upon Williams for three runs. With the score, standing 5-3 in favor of the invaders, McCall's Babes donned their swatting clothes, went in and pounded Clarke galley-west for a couple of runs evening up the score. Schanze replaced Clarke, but rain intervened and again postponed festivities.

Wrigley's Beans will close their invasion today with a double-header, weather permitting, of course. Schanze and Munk will likely be Wrigley's selection, in the hopes of clinching both games. Zeke himself is still out of the game, but directs the team's play from the bench and on the lines. Hobbs is putting up a good game at second.

Babes Management Is After Bert Blue

Chillicothe fans are clamoring for Bert Blue as manager of the orphaned Babes. Blue is a fragment of the now defunct Richmond team of the U. S. League and a free agent. He is playing semi-pro ball and would make the Infants a worthy leader. Blue was one of the best players in the league last season, batting up around the .350 mark and his coming would strengthen the Babes to a marked degree.

HOUSE FLY VS. BED BUG.

One of the characteristics of the present-day campaign for the prevention of disease is the homely, practical way in which facts are being placed before the public. Many of our state boards—through bulletins—are doing excellent work in this direction. As a result, some popular ideas are being sadly shaken. The little house-fly, for instance, has been for years the subject of household poetry, and has been referred to as the harmless and innocent companion of man.

The bedbug, on the contrary, has been looked on with speechless aversion. He has no social standing. Even the mention of his name has not been considered good form in our best circles, while the least suspicion of a speaking acquaintance with him has been regarded with horror.

In the May number of the Bulletin of the North Carolina State Board of Health, Dr. Cyrus Thompson, in an article on "Flies and Filth," says: "Now as a matter of unprejudiced fact, barring the sting of the bite and the odor of the encounter, the bedbug is a much more eligible companion than the house-fly, whether of bed or of board. But if bedbugs, comparatively cleanly of habit, crawled all over our plates, table and food just as the house-flies crawl, fresh from the foulest filth of every pestilential kind, who could eat or even sit at the table for a moment? I am not making a plea for the elevation of the social status of my nocturnal friend, who loves darkness rather than light, but I am declaring that his deeds are not nearly so evil and destructive as those of the house-fly."

Put this statement before every American housekeeper, and the doom of the typhoid fly is sealed, says The Journal of the American Medical Association. The bedbug has been, for generations, the abomination of the housewife, and the object of her unrelenting warfare. Once convince American women that the fly is more loathsome and dangerous than the bedbug, and the ravages of this typhoid-breeder and filth-distributor will be over.

THE TREATMENT OF CRIMINALS.

Dr. Lyman Abbot said in an address at Columbus several years ago that the infliction of punishment always kindled in the person punished a feeling of resentment. He intimated a belief that the infliction of legal penalties interfered with the moral reform of the man punished more than helped to make him a better.

In fact, all penalties, or the most of them, are coming to the position that, while it is proper for the state to deprive criminals of their liberty, that should be done only for the safety of society, when they show that their liberty is not safe for society, and for the purpose of trying to reform them. Another branch of penologists make much of the deterrent effect of penal laws upon people who would like to commit crime but who don't because they fear detection and punishment.

No doubt there are many who live pretty fair lives, but who are none too good to commit crime, only they lack the daring, the audacity and the nerve that is the part of the makeup of most every criminal.

The proper punishment of criminals is now and has always been a problem upon which no one people is agreed. Time alone may solve it, but that time seems far in the future.

TWO HAPPIEST MEN.

Undoubtedly the two happiest men in all the Americas last night were Col. George Harvey and Governor Woodrow Wilson. Col Harvey in the great Morgan periodical, Harper's Weekly, has been persistently or did persistently boom Woodrow Wilson as Presidential timber—until the boom reverberated in the West, and Wilson himself called a halt on the editor. But now that his dream has come true, Col. Harvey and even Marse Henry Watterson must be ready to shout with glee.

While the entire congregation stands we will now sing the concluding stanza of that rock-ribbed hymn of old:

"Every time I come to town,
The boys keep kickin' my dog around';
Makes no difference if he is a houn'—
They gotta quit kickin' my dog aroun'"

We note with a good deal of pride and some more pleasure that up to the hour of going to press Boss Charlie Murphy has not congratulated Mr. Bryan upon his Baltimorean victory.

It is rumored that the A. P. A. will be revived since the nomination of Wilson, whose hatred for Catholicism is well known to the Roman church.

When a man runs for supreme court and is nominated for governor it may be taken to mean that some one didn't want to be governor very badly or somebody else wants to be judge.

Wonder if Bryan's brother Charlie's electioneering against Wilson all day Monday didn't have something to do with the delegates going to Wilson on Tuesday.

A Springfield man asked to name the ten greatest Americans got as far as Billy Sunday and Billy Bryan and unable to think of any others, suggested J. Warren Keifer as the remaining eight.

And along about November you'll find out that when ten or fifteen thousand people went crazy in a convention hall it didn't mean that the whole country was insane.

Maybe the reason you never hear a fellow say anything against his own auto is the fact that he wants to sell it and get another one.

Shortly before buying little Willie the fireworks for tomorrow's celebration take this gentle hint—learn the physician's telephone number by heart.

And where does this leave Walter Brown?

DEATH OF RECLUSE LEAVES BIG FORTUNE UNCLAIMED

One year has gone by and no relatives of James Davis of Peabody, who was killed by a fall October 30, 1910, has appeared. Somewhere on the other side of the ocean it is believed that heirs exist, and that they are probably in moderate circumstnces, and would be delighted to fall into a fortune of $50,000. But the customary efforts to find them have failed. In another two years, if no claimant appears, the money will go to the state of Kansas under the operation of the law. Considerable mystery surrounds both the death of Davis and the non-appearance of the heirs.

"Jimpsey" Davis, as he was commonly called, after a pleasure trip to Kansas City, suddenly appeared in the vicinity of his property in East Branch township, Marion county, northwest of Peabody, acting in an odd manner. He was adjudged insane and confined in a private institution at Atchison. He had been there but a few days when information was given out to the effect that while out with a guard he attempted escape and was killed in falling and a funeral and burial was held at Peabody.

The estate consists of 400 acres of rich Marion county land valued at $100 per acre and $10,000 cash on deposit in a Peabody bank, inherited by "Jimpsey" from his father, an eccentric Englishman, who died a natural death six years ago.

Since "Jimpsey," who was 40 years old at his death, was 15 years old, the father and son had lived an eccentric recluse life on the farm, allowing the presence of no woman on the farm and working hard and following a frugal existence.

James Davis, Sr., came to Marion county, Kansas, from Cardiff, Wales, in 1874, a stone mason.

It's a mighty poor flower that never has a scent.

St. Marys, O., July 3.—Six hundred barrels per day is the rate of flow of a "wild cat" oil well No. 1, on the Charles Fritz farm about four miles north of this city. The result is expected to lead to further activity in the St. Marys Oil Fields.

A hail and wind storm of unusual severity occurred Tuesday in St. Marys and vicinity. The fall of hail lasted over fifteen minutes, and measured a half inch and over in diameter. A number of trees were broken down, corn was reduced to ribbons and fruit destroyed.

The annual picnic of Church and Sunday school of the First Christian church will be held at the City Park on Thursday, July 4th. All members of the church and Sunday school are cordially invited to meet at the Park about 10 a. m. with well-filled baskets. Dinner will be served about 12:30.

GERM LADEN DUST CAUSES CATARRH

Catarrh, which is bad enough in itself, often results in loss of taste, smell and hearing, and leads to serious throat and lung troubles if not promptly checked. The seat of catarrh is usually in the back of the nose, and its natural course is downward, into the throat and thence to the lungs.

Don't take any chances. If you have any symptoms of catarrh—stuffed up feeling in the head, nasty discharge from the nose, sore throat, or dry, hacking cough, get a fifty cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and begin the treatment at once.

This remedy is not a "burning out" or "drying up" process. It is simply a cleansing, healing, antiseptic Balm, taken through the nostrils back into the head and throat where it instantly reaches the seat of the trouble. That's the only way to effectually and permanently cure catarrh.

Catarrh makes you offensive to yourself and friends. Start using Ely's Cream Balm today, and in a short time you will be permanently cured of this nasty, disgusting disease.—H. F. Vortkamp.

Cool Dresses May Be Secured Cheap At Local Shops

These are bargain days for the women who did not load up on a summer wardrobe early in the spring As an instance separate skirts of pique, linen and cottons of plain or fanciful weaves are now being offered in Lima stores from as low as ninety-eight cents to several dollars, and, with the pretty lingerie waists at 98 cents, the wearer is cool looking and at the same time quite presentable.

Gorgeous trimmings for the evening gown for winter wear may be purchased for a fraction of their former price, and in one of the stores there is a beautiful princess lace robe, foundation of heavy ivory silk, covered with chiffon, with a pretty frou frou at the bottom of the skirt, offered at $10.75, where $100 was the original price. The lace is good and the style of the dress equally so. There is a sash of bright king's blue satin, which could be changed to suit the wearer's choice of color.

In another store there is a sale of waists. Those of ecru and white laces and net, some of them handsomely embroidered with attractive designs sell at $2.98.

It is a clever idea to purchase one of the fancy silk waists, veil it with chiffon and add a skirt of plain silk to harmonize with the principal color in the bodice and thus have a new dress equal in style to some of the French importations. The material for the skirt may be purchased at the remaht counter and will cost little, so that the whole gown will not exceed $5 or $6. Some of the bargain waists already have a veiling of chiffon.

Mrs. Smith's Hired Girl

Mrs. Smith is lucky. She has kept a servant for three years, and although the girl has been offered more money elsewhere she won't leave Mrs. Smith. The girl does all the washing, scrubs the floors, does up the lace curtains, and even washes the bedding. People wonder why she stays at Mrs. Smith's and does so much more work than other girls can be induced to do, until they learn that Mrs. Smith buys Easy Task laundry soap, which does one-half the work and makes the other half easier.

Beauty Hints for the Summer Maiden

The hair is never bright and fragrant after the shampoo unless it least three separate applications of soap have been applied. One application removes only a part of the oil and dust, and unless it is followed by at least one more soaping and preferably two, it is gray and lusterless when dry. A vigorous massage covering the entire scalp immediately after the shampoo will give new life and sheen to the hair; also it removes all danger of catching cold. The hair should be completely dry before it is combed out or brushed and should be given at least fifty long strokes with the brush once it is dry.

A most effective lotion for whitening the hands is made with 5 cents worth of bay rum, 15 cents worth of glycerin, 5 cents worth of alcohol and 5 cents worth of quince seed. Shake the lotion before using It will bring about magical results if used regularly for a few days.

When the nails are hard and brittle with tiny ridges occurring along their entire length, rub them at night with cold cream, massaging it well into the base and at the sides. Remove any discolorations with lemon juice.

There is a wonderful beautifying power in cheerfulness. The person who laughs often and heartily need have little fear of insomnia or insanity. Those who laugh, as a rule, are not only healthy people, but they are also longer lived and successful. They get rid of a thousand trifles which perplex and upset the nerves and make others disagreeable, morose and melancholy.

HARROD HAS A NEW MYSTERY

COMPLETE OUTFIT OF MALE CLOTHING FOUND IN A THICKET.

MURDER THEORIES BEING ADVANCED.

SECRET SERVICE MEN MAY SOON START ANOTHER INVESTIGATION.

The finding of an almost complete outfit of a man's clothing in a thicket near a creek in the vicinity of Harrod post office, has added another mystery to the post office safe-blowing at that place more than a month ago. The discovery of a dead horse with its skull hammered to fragments by an iron bar lying nearby, together with a driving buggy believed to have been used by the yeggs in their getaway last week revived interest in the mystery, and the subsequent search and finding of a man's clothing has intensified the mystery. The horse has been identified as the one stolen from Mrs. G. W. Crane, of Harrod, on the night of the post office robbery.

The clothing secreted in a thicket were found yesterday by a Mrs. Molder, while picking berries. Nearby is a creek and theories of a gruesome murder are current among Harrod authorities. The creek is not of sufficient depth in which a person ordinarily would drown, and no trace of a body has been found. The harness found in the buggy together with the clothes, which are spotted with blood, were covered with mold and the horse had evidently been dead for some time.

The scene of the discovery is a dark woods near a dense thicket and a spot rarely visited. The woman was picking berries when she came orcass, the gruesome disclosure. United States secret service men who were detailed to investigate the post office robbery were unable to gather the semblance of a clue despite the fact that no pains have been spared in the search.

A new and more thorough investigation is to be made.

How to Wash White Silk Stockings Successfully

With the white summer lingerie dress come white shoes and white stockings.

As most girls prefer to wear the sensible white boot hose with afternoon frocks, it has become necessary to give these delicate stockings personal care. The most girlish method is to wash them out in the bath room wash bowl.

Then comes the complaint after a few washings that the stockings become yellow.

There is one way and one only in which to wash white stockings successfully. Use tepid water pure white soap. Rub gently with the hands.

Rinse in cold water and add a little bluing, to the last rinse. This is imperative since it is the bluing which will keep them from becoming yellow.

OF FUN WILL BE SPILLED AT HOVER PARK.

Fun, spelled with a capital "F" punctuated with a vehement exclamation mark, and accompanied by all the trimmings, will be spilled in divers directions tonight at Hover park, when the employes, attaches and habitues of the Hoover and Bond store, will relinquish official capacities, board the cars and rattle away to the popular play place, the occasion being the annual picnicing expedition of the concern and an affair long-looked-to and destined to go down in the annals of the establishment as one rolling, rollicking good time.

Every employe of the concern will be there, from Messrs. William Hoover and Victor Bond down to Jimmy, the junior office boy whose natural penchant for the consumption of fun, peanuts and a general good time, is unprecedented in the history of the firm. A glorious program has been arranged in which every participant of the expedition will take part. Everything will be programmed from the hippodrome stunt of the lady employes of the emporium down to the marathon sub-marine glide of the sales department The success of the festival is ndoubted, and other stunts, many and varied are on the menu, but the committee is unwilling to foist upon the public a sketch of the travesty until everything is arranged in detail and carried out as per schedule.

Suffice it to say, however, that the staid old resort will be fun-stormed by the picnicing party and that the affair will be a glorious sucess. Below is the personnel of the party who will participate, together with their families: Willi Hoover, Victor Bond, firm m bers, J. L. Pratt, advertising manager, Miss Glenna Geach, bookkeeper, Miss Hazel Bresler, cashier Miss Mayme Morrow, sales Pat Kirkland, John A. Edw Harry K. Spake, William Ant Levi Clevinger and Elmer He of the sales department.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY UNITED

DECLARE LEADERS AS THEY ARRANGE FOR THE REAL CAMPAIGN.

(By United Press.)

Baltimore, O., July 3.—The Clark men were at first inclined to be bitter, but today they were reconciled and willing to admit that Underwood's action had saved a serious situation and has probably prevented a serious break—if not a bolt in the party.

The real campaign, it was stated, would not be opened for six weeks.

Meanwhile the committee to notify Wilson, of which Ollie James is chairman, and that which will notify Marshall, of which Judge Alton B. Parker is the head, will consult the convenience of the candidates as to when it will be advisable formally to present the notification of the action of the convention. This is expected to be within a month, and Governor Wilson's speech will be the keynote of his campaign.

Despite the discord, bitterness and resentment engendered during the battles on the convention floor, every state leader who left here today was insisting that the party was reunited and there would certainly be harmony and peace in the coming campaign.

EDWARDS WON WITH A RUSH AT THE FINISH

KIRTLEY, OF DEFIANCE, NOMINATED FOR FOURTH TERM ON STATE BOARD.

(By J. W. Beall.)

Surrounded by a band of loyal friends and boosters who remained with him to the finish and continued their missionary work among the remaining delegates after fully half of the tired, hungry and worn out crowd had left the convention hall, Thomas J. Edwards, of Lima, former clerk of the court for Allen county and now a traveling representative of the Gramm-Overland Motor Truck company, was nominated last night, by the republican state convention, for the office of clerk of the supreme court, a nomination which the popular Limaite had been seeking ever since he entered upon his second term as an official of Allen county.

Edwards was the last candidate to be nominated by the convention and as the delegates had already been in session for ten long and overheated hours, the Allen county man's friends had only to be on the job to put their man on the ticket for they had the best working organization in the convention and their lines were difficult to break. Many of the county and even whole district delegations were only represented by a few men as the elbows call was made, but those who were there had Edwards men at the elbows and were not allowed to forget that the Allen county man was the one entitled to the nomination. True, he was running against J. S. McNutt, of Salem, who had had one term in the office and one defeat for the office, but it would have been injudicious on the part of the convention to have nominated McNutt because he is a citizen of Columbiana county and that county already had one candidate on the state ticket in the person of John L. Sullivan, of East Liverpool, nominee for secretary of state. Edwards received 382 votes, McNutt received 241 and Orten G. Lea, of Delaware county, the third man in the race mustered only 78.

Edwards left Columbus this morning, for St. Louis, where, he goes on business for the company he represents. He was greatly pleased over having been nominated and is grateful to the members of the Allen county delegation who have so loyally supported him and played the game of politics for him throughout the day. His name was presented before the convention by John Cable, chairman of the Allen county delegation. Among others who assisted Edwards on the floor of the convention were Davis J. Cable, Capt. John A. Harley, S. S. Wheeler, Col. Halfhill, Frank H. Downing, John Marsh, Glen Wallace, W. L. McClain and R. R. Zurmehly.

Kirtley For Fourth Term.

The only radical Roosevelt man who was allowed to get on the state ticket was "Billy" Kirtley, of Defiance, who was nominated together with William H. Meinhardt, of Cincinnati, for places on the state board of public works. They won in a field of five candidates, the opposition being Charles H. Geidel, of Coshocton; John G. Fischer, of Cleveland, and Frank C. McCullough, of Bellefontaine.

Kirtley has served two terms on the state board of public works, is now serving a third term and has been made the nominee for a fourth term. Like his patron saint, Mr. Roosevelt, Kirtley does not believe two terms in office enough.

The Allen county delegation was in the limelight throughout the convention session and there was not a candidate whose name was placed on the state ticket who had not been supported by Allen county. Allen, being near the head of the list in the roll calls, played strategic parts in the starting of more than one band wagon on which other delegations clambered after Cable's bunch. Allen county had the honor and distinction of launching the landslide which nominated Judge Dillon for governor.

Some of the Limaites got away from the convention hall in time to get trains for home during the fore part of the night, while others remained at the capital over night.

Judge Wanamaker, of Akron, former Lima man, who was defeated as a candidate for the nomination for supreme court judge, is credited with having declared, after his defeat, that he will be an independent candidate and will get on the non partisan ticket by petition. He was a supporter of the Roosevelt campaign. He did not receive any support from the Allen county delegation, although there were men on that delegation who went to school to him at the old west building, when he was a school teacher in this city. The Allen county delegates had no use for Roosevelt men.

Police News

Five plain drunks and two train riders comprised the motley crowd docketed before Mayor Shook this morning for trial. Lester Scriven and Willis Hornes, picked up by detectives, were given $1.00 and costs for riding trains without the necessary passports.

Charles Evans, Joe Fredericks, Theodore Millbrooks, Joe Kelley and John Shay were the drunks. Shay, playing a return engagement, was assessed $5.00 and costs, while the others were given the minimum of $1.00 and costs. There being a scarcity of simoleons among the victims, there was a noticeable increase of stone pile habitues this morning.

A violation of the city traffic ordinance resulting in a serious automobile crash was responsible for the arrest and subsequent fining of F. Elsass, a farmer of near Geyer, who drew an assessment of $1.00 and costs in mayor's court last night on a charge brought against him by Tony Keller, driver for R. L. Graham, whose machine Elsass collided with. The accident happened Saturday night.

It cost G. W. Brackney, 143 south Main street, $8.45 to drive his machine on west Market street at a 25-mile-per-hour clip, Monday evening.

W. P. Deisel, 312 south Cole street, was soaked $25.00 and costs for speeding on west Elm street Tuesday night. It was his second offense of the year and he was convicted despite the fact that he pleaded not guilty.

Washing With Clay

A savage tribe in Africa daubs cloth with clay, then rubs the dirt out in the river. That's a good deal like using a hunk of yellow soap that is made heavy with rosin and stale grease. The rosin stays in the cloth and keeps some of the dirt with it, and then your clothes look streaky. Easy Task laundry soap—the white soap made of cocoanut oil, borax, naptha and wholesome tallow—takes the dirt out. That's its business—taking dirt out and driving disease germs away. Twenty-five years of reputation back of it, and still it is but five cents a cake.

Prosperity

News Item: The reorganization of China has been made possible by the complete understanding reached today by the bankers representing the six powers, the United States, Great Britain, Germany, France, Russia, and Japan, to loan China $500,000,000.

It's a questionable prosperity to have borrowed money but it at least conveys the idea of prosperity to have money at all. The better way to create the impression of prosperity is to be well dressed with fashionable and correct clothes. At this shop you can accomplish this at a very moderate outlay.

GOTHAM PAPERS

Review Result of Democracy's Work

(By United Press.)

New York, July 3.—Commenting on Wilson's nomination the New York Times today said:

"The Democratic party in the nomination of Wilson gained.

"It will be reorganized, it will become effective, it will have once more the confidence of the people. The nomination of Governor Wilson will unite the party. It invites we may almost say it commands, the return of property. It reduces Mr. Roosevelt's bolt to the proportions of a Republican quarrel."

THE WORLD SAYS:

"He will be the first president of the United States in a generation to go into office owing favors to nobody except the American people and under obligations to nothing except the general welfare. Governor Wilson's nomination means the rule of the boss is over."

HEARST'S AMERICAN

"The New York American will support the nominee, whoever else may rise or fall in the fortunes of the last convention of the Democrat party. Wm. J. Bryan comes out of it stained forever and stamped by his hypocrisy and his hate as a fraud and a demagogue, false in language, false in profession and false in friendship as to party."

FROM THE TRIBUNE.

"The victory of the radical element at Baltimore will be a killing frost to the hopes of the projectors of the new third party. It was even a greater triumph for Mr. Bryan than it was for Mr. Wilson."

THE HERALD.

"Hats off to the Governor.

"He may not know it, but he is 'on his way' and that is the way of a radical of the radicals."

THE PRESS.

"Mr. Roosevelt makes an aggressive campaign as a candidate on a third ticket. Mr. Wilson naturally would have a better chance to hold progressive Democrats from going to the Colonel than any other man who was prominent in the canvass before the Baltimore convention. To Wilson the opposing party has lent, for this campaign, the most powerful suit of armor he could wear. It is Republican actionalism.

"If there is one spot that can be penetrated behind that borrowed coat of mail, it is the tariff flesh of the Democratic candidates."

Giddy Girl.

"Is your daughter of a practical turn of mind?" inquired the South Side man. "No, she is very frivolous," replied the North Side citizen. "Wants to take cooking lessons instead of improving her game of bridge."

LONDON PRESS IS LANDING THE TICKET.

London, July 3.—The Press of London regardless of politics today applauded the nomination of Governor Wilson by the Democrats at Baltimore generally asserting that he was the best Democratic like a Democraticmfweulatoioin available.

"It certainly looks like Democratic success," said the Pall Mall Gazette. "The nomination of Wilson will prevent the leakage of radical votes from the party to Roosevelt. The selection of Wilson will prove an awkard bunker for Roosevelt."

STILL ALARM.

An electric bulb showering its brilliancy in a small ante-room at the First Baptist church, at McDonald and High street, at 12:30 this morning, attracted the attention of a passerby and a silent alarm brought the central fire ladies to the scene to determine the cause of the glow. The light had been left burning through an oversight, and was turned off by the firemen.

BUYS FINE PIANO.

A. Ritzler, Jr., manager of the Lima Automatic Music Company in the Ohio Electric building, today completed a deal selling to Saloonist Peter Keller, a $3,000 automatic piano and music box. The new machine is declared to be the largest and most expensive in the city, and has been on display for several days.
